By Alvin F. Oickle

Jonathan Walker The Man with the Branded Hand By Alvin F. Oickle

This historical biography follows an idealistic Cape Cod sailor on his daring attempt to sail seven fugitives from slavery to freedom in the British Bahamas in 1844. Caught by bounty hunters, the seven men are returned to Pensacola, Florida, for punishment and return to plantations. Walker is jailed a year, fined, put in a pillory, and branded in open court by a U.S. marshal -- SS for slave stealer. U.S. history is applied regionally for FL, WI, MI, MA, and TX.

Editorial Review

Review

"Alvin Oickle's thoroughly researched historical biography. . . covers a broad spectrum of 19th century American history. This book includes illustrations and an extensive bibliography." -- Cape Cod (Mass.) Times

"An excellent job of fleshing out the many themes and issues of the time, as well as painting a solid portrait of yet another sketchy historical character. I especially appreciate the way the book presents such a balanced view of Walker as he appeared to his contemporaries, from adulation to scorn to indifference." -- James Brown, curator, Harwich (Mass.) Historical Society

"Oickle meticulously sets forth Walker's life, bringing excitement to a little-known fact of history." -- Greenfield (Mass.) Recorder

"This book will truly be the pioneer grass-roots of the of the original Walker family tree. I swear that I am almost walking on air this morning." -- Mervin J. Walker, Pound, WI

About the Author

Alvin F. Oickle was an editor and writer for daily newspapers and The Associated Press, and taught writing at the University of Massachusetts/Amherst and the State University of New York/Stony Brook over a 35-year career. He spent seven years researching slavery, abolitionists' activities, and the nation's growth in the 19th century to provide exciting national scenes for this biography.
